Good news story from India South: Part Two

A Green Pledge in Young Hearts

Plant a seed, and watch it grow
Teach the children, let them know.
Clean the earth, keep waters blue,
Caring for creation starts with you.
Trees give shelter, fruits, and shade,
A gift of love our hands have made.
Every flower, leaf, and tree,
Whispers God's love for all to see.
We promise now, both young and old,
To guard the earth, more precious than gold.
Together we'll nurture, protect, restore,
Our common home forevermore.
Teach us to love our Earth, our home,
Give us courage wherever we roam.
Fill us with hope, compassion, and light,
To build a world that is just and right.
Raise your hands, let hearts unite,
For nature, for justice, for what is right.
Small acts today will bloom and grow,
A greener, brighter world we'll know.
