Good news story from Bangladesh

We Are Green, We Are Clean

Small actions can bring huge change. Yes, small actions can indeed lead to huge differences by creating ripple effects and initiating transformative change within oneself or in our community. Sustainable practices can collectively lead to significant positive environmental changes when many individuals participate.

On the Theme of “We are Green, We are Clean” Students, Sisters and Teachers at St Joseph’s School, Gournadi, Barisal, Bangladesh, celebrated the World Environment Day-2025.

Students, Sisters and Teachers were took part in a tree planting drive on the school premises. Overall 100 trees were planted. As part of World Environment Day celebration activities included: painting, slogan writing competition, poster making and wall magazine on the topic of “We are Green, We are Clean”.

The celebrations inspired everyone to take small steps for nature conservation.

All participants pledged to avoid use of plastic, save water, and plant more trees at home. It created awareness about green efforts and inspired people to love, care and protect our Common home.

It was a meaningful and motivating day for everyone.
